The journey of a lifetime...

...with courage, hope, intention, love and faith.

Meet the Doyles of Kailua-Kona: mom Tricia, dad Derek and their boys, Clint, 22 and Kent, 14. Both sons are thought to have a congenital heart condition that has nearly claimed their lives several times. Without warning, their hearts can suddenly stop beating and immediate CPR is required to get them started again. Their other son Luke, 25, who lives back in Australia where the Doyle's are from originally, is finishing his final year of university work and also working with the government's Disability Services Commission. Luke does not have the disorder that Clint and Kent have.

The Doyles were on Oahu because Kent had collapsed on January 6 and needed open heart surgery to insert a defibrillator and try to stabilize his heart rhythms. A few days after his surgery, doctors agreed to let him out of the hospital as long as they stayed near the hospital and kept him quiet and rested. "The case manager suggested Ronald McDonald House," says Tricia. "We found that the aloha spirit and home-away-from-home atmosphere there made it an ideal place for Kent to recover and for us as a family to be there with him."

It has been a long road for Derek and Tricia. It all began when their second son Clint had his first episode when he was two. A perfectly healthy and active child, he gave no indication of any heart problems. The family's sheep farm in the Western Australian bush provided him with an infinite number of play options and like other kids his age he eagerly explored the world around him.

To all at Ronald McDonald House on Judd Hillside:

A most enormous thanks and a huge appreciation to the staff and families here who have made this "home-away-from-home" for us - myself (Trish), Derek, Clint and Kent. An emergency medi-vac flight from Kona to Queens on 7th Jan. had Mum and Kent at Queens and Derek and Clint looked after by RMH. When Kent left Queens we had a beautiful peaceful place to have him heal and recover until Dr. gave him clearance to go home to Kona, after his heart surgery. We have enjoyed so much the peaceful environment, the spoiling with all the yummy goodies which have been abundant AND mostly the friendly, caring and supportive staff and United Nations family of families at RMH.

We will be forever grateful and sing RMH praises for hospitality, care and outreach that was a lifesaver for us. The connection as we engaged with other families was healing and helpful to us all. The parents that we met from Maui, Guam and Fiji created much joy in the kitchen and around the table as we all sat and told stories and opened our hearts to our new friends Chris and Christian, new in the House.

Please pass on our thanks to the generous donors who give financially, volunteer time and give food and spirit which is palpable as a healing balm in this "home-away-from-home".

We have been lifted up by angels at RMH and Thank God for this wonderful place and staff;

God Bless you all abundantly.

You are in our hearts now.

Much love,

Trish, Derek, Clint and Kent Doyle

A Message from our President

Aloha from The House That Love Built!

Behind the scenes at RMHC-HI, we are working on a special project that will have a huge and lasting impact on the organization. We won't be growing physically from our present two Houses and Family Room, but we will be building and upgrading our technological infrastructure.

We are modernizing the way we organize and store data, and we are working to upgrade our website, online communications and online donation capabilities.

Improvements in these areas will ultimately lower operating costs and thus stretch donations farther.

We are finding that, in fact, some people far prefer online communication, and we are going to give you the option of hearing from us that way. However, many others are more comfortable with and even prefer printed materials, so we have no plans to stop using the good old U.S. Mail for them.

Probably, the biggest project that we are working on right now is our conversion to a new database system. When completed, it will allow us to streamline our internal workings and make our daily efforts more efficient. It is so important for us to start out with data that we know is correct, and this is how you can help.

If you have received this newsletter in the mail, please watch for another letter from us that will ask you to confirm or correct your current data on file. We may be asking you to provide some other information too, voluntary of course, about additional preferences you may have.

I can't emphasize strongly enough that RMHC-HI has not, does not, and will never rent, sell, trade, or in any other fashion, share any information in our database with anyone. Your privacy is guaranteed and our Privacy Statement is available on our website.

We are very excited about this important step in our organizational evolution. I hope that you are enthusiastic too, and will take the time to respond to our upcoming correspondence. Mahalo!

Journey of a Lifetime

The day Clint collapsed at Tricia's feet in 1989, life changed forever for the Doyles. They performed CPR and got him to the local hospital as soon as they could, but precious oxygen wasn't getting to the brain and there was damage.

They were stunned by what was happening at first, but they soon realized they had to take charge of the situation. Thus, began their long and sometimes difficult quest to bring Clint the highest quality of life possible despite the dire prognosis. "Aussies never give up," Tricia says with a smile.

For years, doctors were not able to pinpoint Clint's condition, and felt that if Derek and Tricia had another child, the baby would not have the same heart problems. So, their youngest son Kent was brought into the world in 1995 and was fine until, in 1999 at age four, he too collapsed and his heart stopped. Just like his brother Clint, Kent suffered brain damage before he could be revived.

Tricia and Derek refused to listen to negative opinions and those who repeatedly told them that their boys were beyond help. Their faith in God empowered the Doyles to love each other unconditionally, and through their strength of intention, they have had the courage to hope for miracles and dream the "impossible."

Clint, as it turns out, is far from helpless—the young man has already started his own florist company, been a motivational speaker, has a wonderful portfolio of artwork, and has even been featured in art shows.

There are big hopes in the family that Kent's condition will stabilize too, and that he will be able to bloom as well. He wants to be a chef one day and have his own restaurant. "It's been his passion since he was very young," Tricia recounts. "Now it has become a very important part of his recovery. As his brother Luke said recently, 'His cooking is a great joy to him and brings him healing and happiness.'"

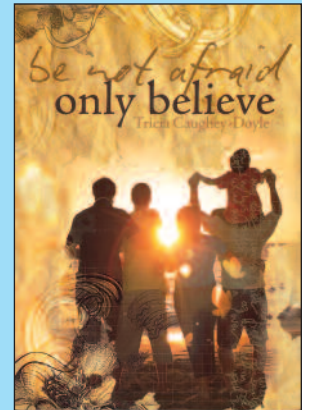

Now, their amazing path has taken the Doyles to Hawaii. After house sitting for a friend in Kona three years ago, they decided to stay. "We fell in love with the place and the people," Tricia says. "We are embraced by and embracing the spirit of Aloha, which we find to be a remarkable and palpable love, a spirit of genuine caring and outreach that is simple and generous in every way. It makes one feel blessed and at home, just like we felt at Ronald McDonald House."

During Tricia Doyle's journey, she has traveled from being a rural sheep farmer and teacher to being a person on a very different sort of mission. Her life experiences have revealed to her a need, and her faith has given her the strength to tackle the task. Through her consulting business, Beyond The Limit Consulting, Inc., Tricia is working with families, community organizations, schools, hospitals, and universities to encourage people with disabilities to discover their gifts and strengths.

One thing is for sure, the Doyles had quite an impact on the staff and other families staying at the House. Their positive outlook, devotion to one another, and belief that everyone deserves to be respected and given the chance to participate in and embrace life, continues to inspire and motivate others around them.

Have you ever wondered what it would be like to walk in the shoes of a parent with a seriously disabled child? You will probably never come closer to understanding than by reading Tricia Doyle's inspiring book called "be not afraid, only believe".

In it, Tricia chronicles her family's journey, and describes her personal quest on behalf of her children's rights as citizens and human beings, to flourish. Their inspiring story says much about the human spirit and underscores the power of parental love and courage.

AROUND THE HOUSE

by Kanoë Paauhau,
Judd Hillside House Manager

We know from the exit surveys families fill out when they are leaving Ronald McDonald House that having activities to pass time between hospital visits and to briefly take their minds away from much more serious things is very important to them. An outing can be good medicine for the whole family. That's why we are so grateful when people in the community step forward to make them possible.

On President's Day, our friends out at Wet 'n' Wild Hawaii hosted families from both Houses for a day at the water park. It was NFL Day and families were able to get a private meeting with several of the pro players and take pictures with them. They had a great time.

On January 22, the adults from the Oahu Avenue House got a special treat and a chance to remember what a "normal" evening is like for them. These are the parents of hospitalized children, and they spend countless hours, day after day, at their bedsides.

The families were invited to spend an evening with entertainer Junior Kekuewa, Jr. at his new show, "Junior 'Live' in Waikiki" at the Sheraton Princess Kaiulani Hotel, and enjoy his family variety show. Junior is no stranger to Ronald McDonald House, as he has visited the families before to entertain them there.

During the show, the families were able to sit in the front row and enjoyed a variety of talented performers such as the Little Keiki Sisters dancing hula; the beautiful voice of Janel Akana; and watching the wonderful and amazing Melveen Leed perform with Junior. The families were appreciative and impressed with the wonderful talents showcased that evening.

The best part for the families was when our very own, Danielle Baker from Kauai, whose daughter, Taylor was hospitalized in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit at the Danielle went onstage with Junior Kekuewa, Jr.

Kapiolani Medical Center for Women and Children, was brought on stage. Dancing with Junior on stage was the highlight of Danielle's night! For some of our families it was their very first time seeing a variety show. After the show, the families returned to the Ronald McDonald House and ended the evening by playing Pictionary, and since then, they have become closer than ever.

Volunteer Spotlight

"The Giving Couple"

It's really wonderful that so many couples are volunteering at RMHC-HI. As you will see, couples don't always choose to fill the same type of volunteer roles or even volunteer at the same time. We are fortunate enough to have several special couples on our volunteer roster, but I want to shine the spotlight this month on Francis and Yvonne Nakamoto, whom I call "The Giving Couple."

Francis and Yvonne have been extraordinary volunteers in two different RMH volunteer program areas. Yvonne, a retired legal assistant, is a RMH Family Room volunteer. Once every other week in the afternoon, Yvonne is at the RMH Family Room, helping to provide respite and support for families. She says she enjoys the RMH Family Room because it "allows families a place of relaxation when needed, while still staying near their child in the hospital." Yvonne, who originally started off as a short term volunteer for RMH is now hitting her six-year anniversary.

Francis, a retired attorney, sponsors and cooks breakfast for the RMH families every Thursday morning. Expanding on a tradition

Michelle Wie provides technology and entertainment upgrades for the families

She's helping to build a new playground too!

One week after joining Walmart to distribute Christmas gifts at the Ronald McDonald House Family Room in Kapiolani Hospital, golf star Michelle Wie donated $5,000 worth of entertainment and technology improvements to the Ronald McDonald House and another $5,000 to help us create a future playground at our Judd Hillside House. Wie's donations included new flat screen TVs, a video library, computer stations, printers, and additional games for the PlayStation 3 that she and Walmart donated the previous week.

The technology and entertainment upgrades will be a big boost for families who find themselves just biding their time between a child's treatments. Wie genuinely cares about the children, and they could sure feel it.

"As I've traveled around the world as an athlete, I've had the privilege of meeting some very brave kids who are facing difficult health challenges, but I've also met so many people who work every day to make those children's lives brighter," said Wie. "I have so much admiration for the people at Ronald McDonald House, and all they do to help these children, and I wanted to do what I could to make this Christmas a special one for these kids while they were away from home."

The combined value of contributions from Wie and Walmart was nearly $20,000!

Shortly after her visit, RMHC-HI received a card from Wie expressing her pleasure at visiting and meeting the staff and families.

"The visit was an absolutely incredible experience for me," she wrote. "I walked away from the trip very much inspired."

Thanks Michelle, and good luck at Stanford and out on the pro golf tour!

Speaking of golf...

19th Annual RMHC-HI Golf Classic needs prizes - How about your company?

Believe it or not, we are already starting to plan and prepare for our annual RMHC-HI Golf Classic, set this year for August 11 at Hickam Air Force Base's Mamala Bay Golf Course.

We really need your help, because our aim is to make this summer's 19th Annual Classic more exciting and fun than ever before.

We are seeking prize donations—especially prizes for the three-man teams; goodie bags for all the players; and for the silent and live auctions. It could be an opportunity to get exposure for your product or company in front of a group of 200 community leaders and business executives who will be golfing.

To acknowledge your prize donation(s), your company name will be listed in the Official Tournament Day Program; the Sponsor/Donor Brochure in with the golfer's prize; on the tables at the Awards Banquet Ceremony; and receive a thank you letter and donation receipt from RMHC-HI. A gift of goods or services from you or your business to the 2010 Golf Classic is considered a charitable donation under IRS regulations and may be considered a tax-deductible gift depending on your particular circumstances.

If you would like to make a donation, please call Reenie at (808) 973-5683 ext. 243.

If you would like to enter a team, please call Candace at ext. 239.

The Fourth Annual Share a Night Gala

Big turnout to support RMHC-HI and honor The Kelley Family and Outrigger Enterprises Group

Smiles were rampant as some 650 people gathered in Waikiki November 21 for the 2009 RMHC-HI Gala. It was an occasion to demonstrate support for the organization's work of helping families with seriously ill children, and acknowledge the contributions The Kelley Family and Outrigger Enterprises Group have made towards RMHC-HI since our inception. The annual fundraiser netted nearly $200,000 for RMHC-HI.

The Kelleys have been connected to RMHC-HI since the first Ronald McDonald House was being planned in the mid-1980s. It was then that Outrigger began making rooms available at a mere fraction of the actual rate for families who were waiting for the first House to open. It is because of the relationship with the Kelleys that RMHC-HI has never had to turn an eligible family away over the years. When the House is full, and in some other instances, families are temporarily placed at an Outrigger Ohana hotel, and now, as the total of room nights provided nears 20,000, RMHC-HI honored The Kelley Family and is grateful for their continued commitment to help Hawaii's families!

Heroes of the Heart

Danica Kimura's legacy

by Reenie Rea, Development Specialist

When asked, Roxane Kimura will probably explain her involvement with Ronald McDonald House Charities of Hawaii by simply saying "I do it for the children." But her motivation for wanting to help is really much deeper. You see, everything she does to make a difference in children's lives is to honor the memory of her daughter Danica.

In February of 1993, Danica, a beautiful, happy six-year-old, began suffering from seizures and doctors were unable to determine the underlying cause. They could only put her on medication to try to control her episodes. She tried to lead a normal life by continuing first grade at Waimalu Elementary School, although she began needing tutoring for extra help. But by mid - July, Danica was noticeably going blind.

Not long after, one Friday night, Danica got really sick, and on Saturday she was back at Kapiolani Medical Center for Women and Children. "That's when we found out from the doctor that there was significant deterioration of her brain," Roxane tearfully recalls. "The docand her husband Lindsey were faced with a staggering responsibility that no parents should ever have to deal with—preparing their young daughter for her final days on Earth.

On the following Wednesday, the Kimura's were getting ready to take Danica home, but that morning in the hospital she passed away. "We were there, we got to hold her, we got to talk to her, and we knew she was already passing," recalls Roxane.

It took a while for Roxane and Lindsey to process Danica's stunningly rapid death, and move forward, but the couple very much wanted to find closure so they began to research the causes of seizures. "We found out that seizures in young children can be because of the environment, and that toxic chemicals in children are stored in their brain because that's the largest amount of fat cells in one place," Roxane says. Her research made her wonder if she could have provided a healthier home environment for her daughter.

"I enjoyed a clean house, so I used products that I grew up with, which is common for everyone. You know, the harsh cleansers, detergents and aerosol disinfectants," she admits. "That's all we knew. We didn't have choices like we do now."

Roxane decided that she needed to get on a mission, and that's how it began. "I was just one mom on a mission, but now it includes other moms and even some dads," she points out. "Our mission became to educate and make changes a little at a time, one family at a time, one child at a time, and one organization at a time."

Danica Kimura

So Moms On a Mission was born, and now some 35 committed members donate their time and help raise money for the children and families of Ronald McDonald House Charities of Hawaii. For the past two years, Roxane and her fellow Melaleuca customers have been donating environmentally friendly and safe cleaning products, lotions, air fresheners, and hand, dish, and laundry soaps every month to the two Ronald McDonald Houses and RMH Family Room. "This ensures a safe, healthier, non-toxic environment." Roxane says.

Moms On a Mission does so much more than donate cleaning products. They come and clean the two Houses the first Saturday of every month. They have donated to the Annual Golf Classic, held Easter activities for the children to enjoy, and teamed up a few times with Pacific Expos to

COMMUNITY SUPPORT

Next time you fill-up your tank, help RMHC-HI!

Aloha Petroleum, Ltd., one of Hawaii's largest gasoline marketers and convenience store operators, will be collecting cash donations for RMHC-HI at its 30 Aloha Island Mart locations on Oahu and the Big Island.

The specially marked Ronald McDonald House Charities of Hawaii collection canisters are located at Aloha Island Mart checkout counters and will be in place through May 31. A complete list of Aloha Island Mart locations can be found at www.AlohaGas.com.

"Ronald McDonald House Charities fills such an important need in our community by offering families with ill children a comforting place to stay.

We're pleased to support RMHC-HI and know that our customers will be too," said Richard Parry, Aloha Petroleum President and CEO.

Golf to help the kids!

The Hawaii Building Engineers Association is staging a golf tournament with RMHC-HI as the beneficiary! The Best Ball Team event will take place at the Hawaii Prince Golf Course on Tuesday, April 27. Entry fees are $100 for individuals or $400 for teams. Deadline to enter is April 10. More information and an entry form are available at www.RonaldHouseHawaii.org.

A-1 Carpet Cleaning befriends RMHC-HI

A-1 Carpet Cleaning, actually a father-daughter team, has made a wonderful contribution to RMHC-HI. On Saturday, February 20, dad Larry Murata and daughter Darcie cleaned all the carpets at the Judd Hillside House, the manager's cottage, and the Oahu Avenue House. Larry said he has been blessed with so many jobs that he felt moved to help others. Their successful business is rather remarkable since the Muratas don't advertise or even have a listing in the phone book. "All word of mouth," Darcie explained.

It was an all day job — an incredible gesture to give of themselves to others. May they have continued success!

U.H. football player's speed, agility, power clinic benefits RMHC-HI

University of Hawaii defensive back Mana Silva along with teammates Hogan Rosehill and Ikaika Mahoe conducted a special all sports clinic in Hilo on January 4 with proceeds going to RMHC-HI. "It's a good charity to give back to," Mana said. He and his wife Keilah stayed at the Oahu Avenue Ronald McDonald House for two weeks when their son Kauahe was being treated at Kapiolani Hospital after his premature birth. Kauahe is now a healthy two-year-old.

he started at his law firm, Francis prepares a buffet that usually includes hot pancakes, waffles, fried rice, sausages, corned beef hash, eggs, fresh fruits, juice, and home made pies or cakes. The wonderful aroma fills the morning air as the families awaken upstairs. "I love seeing the appreciative smiles of the families when they walk into the kitchen for a hearty breakfast to start their day," says Francis. "I can sympathize with their hardship and it's heart-warming to me to bring a little comfort for them during their time of need."

Early last year, Francis and Yvonne's granddaughter was born six weeks premature in Connecticut. Francis spent some time up on the mainland with his daughter and her newborn child. "Today, she's doing great and is healthier than ever, but I could certainly relate to families whose child is in the NICU," says Francis.

Here is Francis, hard at work in the House kitchen (left), and then ready to encourage the families to enjoy his finished breakfast.

Francis and Yvonne Nakamoto, a couple committed to bringing a little sunshine to others, are marvelous examples for us all, and demonstrates the fact that volunteers are the backbone of RMHC-HI. Mahalo Francis and Yvonne!
